IMMORTAL

He lied about his identity. Two hundred years later, he's still paying the price...

Prussia, 1841. Abraham only ever wanted to play violin. Hiding his Jewish status so he can study at the prestigious Berlin Academy of Music, the eager young man is delighted to find a patron who believes in him. But he's mortified when his new friend turns him into a vampire... and Abraham earns the fury of an ancient antisemite who vows to see him permanently dead.
